

The investigatOr

It's Vacation Time!

School's finished, finally summer vacation is here! We know you'll have a great summer before returning to school in September.

Since we first met, you've made a lot of progress. It has given us great pleasure to watch you grow up during these years. Our observations and the information you have given us have made it possible for us to describe your generation. The data will contribute to implementing preschool and school programs for other young people like you and for generations to come! You have done great work and come a long way. You can be proud of yourself.

As for us, well we hope to be able to continue observing the path you take into the future. Who knows, perhaps we will see each other soon.

For now, we want to say THANKS!

Have a great summer!!!

Did you know that...

- ... Students around the world have summer vacations from school?
- ... In Germany, students are not as lucky as you are – their vacation starts in July and ends in mid-August. Too short, don't you think?
- ... In some countries like New Zealand and Australia, vacation begins in... December? Sure, because their seasons are opposite to ours. When it's winter here, it's summer there.
- ... In Sweden, where the education system is very flexible compared to ours, adults can go to school with teenagers and get their diploma at the same time? And you, would you like to be in the same class as your parents?

Congratulations to all the winners of the "I WIN BY PARTICIPATING" contest

The draw for the 16 prizes in the "I Win by Participating" contest was held on June 21 by the "I am, I'll be" team in the presence of a commissioner of oaths. For reasons of confidentiality, the winners among our 1,600 participants are not listed here. They were contacted directly by telephone and letter.

A participant from the Montérégie region won the grand prize – a Wii console and Wii Balance Board from Nintendo.

Fifteen other winners won prizes, and chose one from a list of those we selected for the contest. They will certainly find the choice difficult – they will have to decide among a Nintendo DS and a game of their choice, the latest iPod nano, a complete Harry Potter film collection or a complete collection of "Les Nombriils" comic books. Quite a decision to make!

Congratulations to all our winners!

I AM,
I'LL BE

happy educated active healthy