

The Investigator

www.iamillbe.stat.gouv.qc.ca

The 2013 round of data collection is over!

This year, more than 1,680 of you responded to the questionnaire: that's more than in 2011!

The "I Am, I'll Be" team is grateful for your generosity, as each of you took the time to answer our questions. This data will be analyzed while taking every precaution to ensure confidentiality. It will be compared with the responses you gave us in the past and will help us better understand young teenagers in Québec.

NEW: You will notice that a brochure is included with this issue of The Investigator. It provides a portrait of the study participants and was designed specially for you! It contains original figures that show certain trends regarding your relationship with school, the characteristics of your families, and more!

Happy reading!

Did you know that...

- > The year 2013 marks the 100th anniversary of the first central statistics agency in Québec, the Bureau des statistiques de Québec (BSQ), which officially began its operations on November 11, 1913?
- > Every year, the Institut, created in 1999, carries out an average of 50 surveys of 200,000 individuals and 38,000 businesses in Québec?
- > It releases over 100 publications and thousands of tables and figures on various aspects of Québec society, such as health, demography, culture, labour, etc.?
- > The year 2013 is also the International Year of Statistics? The Institut is currently preparing activities for the fall. For more information, go to www.stat.gouv.qc.ca.

Draw

The draw for the 20 prizes of $150 each took place in our offices on June 17, under the supervision of a commissioner of oaths. The winners were contacted by phone by one of our team members to give them the good news! The winners come from the following regions:

- > Laurentides
- > Montérégie
- > Abitibi-Témiscamingue
- > Saguenay-Lac-Saint-Jean
- > Capitale-Nationale
- > Chaudière-Appalaches
- > Laval
- > Centre-du-Québec
- > Mauricie
- > Montréal

Have a great summer!

